Keyboard Music: Studies in Performance Practice (Oxford Monographs on Music):

In this first full-scale study of performance practice in Haydn's keyboard music, Bernard Harrison confronts the important issues facing any performer of this repertoire, and considers some of the recurring controversial questions in broader research on Haydn's oeuvre.

"A major contribution to Haydn scholarship. Potential performers of the composer's keyboard music will find a commanding and well-documented exposition of the problems facing him or her; at the same time the volume will be of fundamental value to those interested in Haydn's music who are not primarily practitioners....Comprehensive and authoritative."--David Wyn Jones
From the Back Cover
In this comprehensive study of performance practice in Haydn's keyboard music, Bernard Harrison confronts the important issues facing any performer of this repertoire. He deals with the full range of the composer's keyboard work---concertos, divertimenti, concertini, trios, Klavierstücke, and sonatas---and emphasizes the connection between performance practice and compositional style.
