I definitely wouldn't actually believe all of the facts. For example: While it is true that Australia doesn't have a bill of rights, (because our rights are found elsewhere) we most certainly have a Constitution. It's okay if you want a bit of trivia - mostly about the US, but don't actually base anything on it. Good for a long commute... Update: The author has very kindly updated the fact on the Australian Constitution. It would have been a bit difficult to have the upcoming referendum on including Local Government (Councils) into the Constitution if we didn't actually have one. Tongue in cheek :) Thanks very much for the quick update. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Great collection of interesting facts! A fun read. By Lindylou What a wonderful collection of fun facts! We put this in our guest room, and it has been thoroughly enjoyed by our friends and family as well. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Eh could've been better. By random It had some interesting facts but there were just so many that I would skip through but I wish it had some cooler facts. Like that one about how many worms there were in the ground or how many colors exist or newly discovered animals stuff like that would've been awesome.

Did you know that there are one million earthworms in an acre of soil, or that an average American eats 10 pounds of marshmallows in a year? Did you know that the act of yawning and stretching at the same time is known as pandiculation? These facts, and hundreds more in a wide variety of subjects including history, science, sports, music and more, make I Did Not Know That a must read for trivia buffs and fact fanatics.
