I remember very well, when I was very young, sitting around the radio with the rest of my family, on Saturday and Sunday nights listening to Adventure, Mystery, Detective, and Humorous Radio Programs. This was before the age of Television. When I saw this item for sale I purchased it and my family and I listened to the stories in our car while traveling on vacation. Even our young sons who were skeptical, sat back and listened and later discussed how, although a little kinky, they were interesting stories that made you use your imagination. I would reccommend this item to us old folk to go back in time and to the younger generation to understand what life was like before computers, cell phones, i-pads and pods, etc.5 of 5 people found the following review helpful. Old Time Radio: I Love a MysteryBy Leo CatalanoYes, this is stuff that has been around for a long time, but the quality of sound is definitely an improvement and I am willing to pay the price for perfection! I was pretty young when these played on the radio in the 40's and I remember being completely taken by the series. I had to go to bed at 9:00 p.m., but my radio was under the covers to hear the 10:00 p.m. I Love A Mystery radio program. Sometimes I slept and missed the program, but more than likely, I listened to scary tales like Temple of Vampires, Bury Your Dead, Arizona, etc. By the way, there are a few other mysteries in the series out there and I would love a Volume 2, especially with Temple of Vampires which in my book was the best of the series. Thank you for throwing a bone to those from the 40's who grew up with old time radio. Carleton E. Morse was a genius and a totally under-rated writer. Why didn't Hollywood come courting? He would have come up with some imaginative movies. His radio imagination was definitely cinematic. Under the covers, I was seeing a movie in my mind. The three movies that were done by Hollywood were not Carlton E. Morse quality, strictly vintage B-movie cheapos. Leo Catalano San Francisco

Bought this for my Mom who was a little girl when she used to listen to these shows. She went through the 20 discs in 17 days. She loved every part of bringing back the old memories.

One of the most memorable shows in radio history, "I Love a Mystery" was created by radio's renaissance man, Carleton E. Morse. In this 20-hour collection, you'll enjoy twenty full hours of Morse mysteries, also including broadcasts from "I Love Adventure" and "Adventures by Morse".
