Sergei Prokofiev, Classical Piano Sheet Music : Piano Sonatas Nos. 1-4: Opp. 1, 14, 28, and 29 (Dover Music for Piano) before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Piano Sonatas Nos. 1-4: Opp. 1, 14, 28, and 29 (Dover Music for Piano):

Quality music, but painful on the eyes By Canaille I won't say anything about the music itself, which is stellar, but the score reproduction is abysmal. Any pianist approaching this music better do so with a stellar technique because you will go blind if you spend too long on this music. I'm not quite sure why the notes and staff lines are so blurry. I, surreptitiously photographing the original documents in the Soviet archives surely could have done a better job than the people at Dover. Its as if the editors licked their thumbs and then rubbed them back and forth on each page. Also, the Modernist art work on the book cover (with its precise lines and angular figures) is surely done in jest - the note engravings are more reminiscent of French Impressionism!

Missing accidentals, wrong notes, and many of the markings are hard to see. Page turns are in the worst spots imaginable. I am going to be ordering a replacement, and burning this one once it arrives.

Music books easily run $20 to $30 for a volume like this, and only charged about $10. My daughter's piano teacher (a Juilliard grad) told us Dover was fine. (She specifies which publishers are OK and which to avoid when we purchase music.)

Abounding in the qualities Prokofiev considered the principal elements of his art (classicism, innovation, rhythmic vitality, lyricism, and sardonic humor), this collection features the dramatic and romantic Sonata No. 1 in F minor, Op. 1; Sonata No. 2 in D minor, Op. 14, a masterpiece in four movements; Sonata No. 3 in A minor, Op. 28, a brilliant 7-minute score; and Sonata No. 4 in C minor, Op. 29, a complex, exhilarating three-movement work considered vintage Prokofiev. Selected from authoritative editions.
